I hope everyone enjoyed the lodge this summer with family and friends! As kids go back to school and labor day brings the end to family swim, I would personally like to thank Lisa Michelis as the pool chairperson and all of the volunteers and staff that made the pool season a success!

There were a good deal of positive comments and very little problems. As fall and winter come upon us, it is important to keep up the momentum we have regarding new membership. Membership is a key goal to Grand Lodge this year as well as the local lodges. We need to continue to bring in new members and make sure our current members are enjoying the facilities as well.

Some of the positive things we can do as members is to try and help each other become better and happier people, wishing others well, and supporting one another.

I would like to thank the House Committee on the work they do to make sure our lodge follows the rules dictated by our by-laws, and when there is an issue, to make sure due process is followed.

We need volunteers to keep this lodge open and running. There will be a number of events during the holidays, so please reach out if you can help!

I will end by asking everyone to remember the following phrases:

Laughter is better than tears, and a kind word is more powerful than a frown. The dream of a better world becomes reality when shaped by enough willing hearts and hands.

Dr. Al Landucci's 50 years of philanthropy

Retired orthodontist's scholarship program helps thousands of students

By Nicholas Mazzone
DAILY JOURNAL STAFF

One orthodontist has put smiles on the faces of thousands of students through a scholarship program he created with the San Mateo-Foster City School District and he does it to encourage students to perform better in school.

In the late '60s, Dr. Al Landucci, now a retired orthodontist, joined the San Mateo Elks Lodge where he met Chuck Pierce, a principal for a San Mateo school. Pierce offered to share his locker with Landucci, since there were none available, but under the stipulation that Landucci sponsor the school's sports award ceremony because the school didn't have money for trophies, he said.

The favor turned into a near lifetime of dedication toward academia for Landucci.

"I said, I'd do it but only if I could also start a scholarship for students excelling in academics and active in community service," Landucci said.

More than 50 years later, the foundation annually awards hundreds of students, who excel in math, science, literacy and community service. The scholarships range from $50 to $125 and they are used to motivate the students and to get them excited about school, said Suzi Riley, San Mateo-Foster City School

Al Landucci

District coordinator of Student Services.

Last week, the foundation hosted an award ceremony in San Mateo for the classes of 2020 to 2023, since many of them were not able to graduate in person, Riley added.

"He is very dedicated to the students, a wonderful philanthropist and he is very committed to San Mateo and Foster City," Riley said.

However, Landucci believed priorities were backward for awards and scholarships. He first noticed it as a kid while on a championship football team. There was a big celebration with recognition and awards and to him it felt like there should be more recognition for being a good student and a community-oriented person, he said.

"It just seemed like our priorities were wrong. All the attention went toward sports, but I thought that wasn't right, it's more important to be involved in the community and to be a good student," Landucci said.

In total, since he first started the foundation in the late '60s, he's donated millions of dollars to the school district and multiple Bay Area colleges.

"I feel that to get ahead in life, you need a great education and people should work hard to achieve that. And a lot of parents tell me that it motivates their kids to do better because they want to get the scholarship and that's the goal of it all," Landucci said.

The scholarships are primarily for graduating fifth grade and eighth grade students.

"The scholarships go toward the best students in academics and those who contributed the most to the community," Landucci said.

The program is nice, Riley said, because the school staff chooses the students. Landucci, who is now 80 years old, comes to almost all the graduations and presents the awards himself, she added.

"If you have a good education, you have a much better chance of doing better in this world, I feel, and contributing more to society," Landucci said.

Troop 44 and 4044 News

By James Ross

July is always a very busy month for Troop 44. Among other things, we have our annual Dutch Oven Cookoff, our yearly summer trip, and a variety of different planning activities for the upcoming year. Now, that might not sound like too much, but when you consider that we accomplish most of this in four hour-and-a-half weekly meetings, it's quite a lot.

We started off the month strong with a cool semaphore meeting, led by one of our scouts, Paige. She taught us all the basics of signaling with flags, a skill which has practical applications ranging from communicating with search and rescue planes to contacting other boats.

In the next meeting, we launched straight into our Dutch Oven Cookoff. A yearly tradition in Troop 44, this competition demands that each patrol (a unit within the troop consisting of 4-8ish members) research, shop for, and then cook their own recipe in a Dutch Oven, a large, cast-iron pot with a lid that is placed over coals and functions similarly to an oven. There is a catch, though (because obviously, just cooking a meal, outdoors, over coals, in a big cast iron pot isn't hard enough). Each patrol is given a secret ingredient to incorporate into their recipe, the identity of which is not revealed until the competition starts. Depending on your dish, this ingredient can make it our break it for your patrol. Because of this, in Troop 44, we've seen it all: Marshmallow Spaghetti, Nutella Chicken Pot Pie, and others. Sometimes, the ingredient works out great - one patrol easily incorporated Nutella into their s'mores dip last year. Other times...it works out less great. Refer to the above examples for an idea of what I mean.

The day after our Dutch Oven Cookoff, several members of our troop departed for Japan on our yearly summer trip. This trip is planned by scouts, for the scouts, and it is meant to be a high adventure trip for some of the older members of our troop. This year, there were a few younger scouts too, which was cool.

During the Tokyo trip, our scouts had to deal with brutally hot and humid weather, but I think they would all agree it was worth it, because they got to visit some pretty cool sights, including a ping-pong restaurant, a hedgehog petting zoo, several fascinating statues, the Tokyo Skytree, Tokyo Disneyland, and many other attractions. Upon returning, they recounted their phenomenal trip to the troop.

In addition to the Tokyo trip, our girl's troop (4044) went on their own summer trip. They planned a road trip down the California Coast that involved a fun kayaking adventure (led by a man who helped create the Scouts BSA kayaking merit badge!) and ended at Disneyland. From what I've heard, 4044 had a ton a fun.

We wrapped up the year with a couple of fun troop meetings. On the 24th, we held a ridiculous match of water balloon battleship. Our greenbar cooked up the idea to hang a tarp between two trees in Beresford Park, then take turns throwing water balloons over the top to try and hit members of the opposing team. We did this with reusable water balloons, and I have to say, those were a hit. They're perfect for an activity like this where you only need a few at a time, and the mess is significantly reduced.

For our final meeting of the month, we began to toss around ideas for next year's summer trip (the planning never stops!). A lot of ideas were thrown out, but I was particularly impressed that so many of the younger scouts were pushing for a backpacking trip. It's pretty cool that our younger half wants to do something so challenging, but also so fun. Summer trip presentations, where any scout who wants to can pitch an idea that then gets voted on by the troop, will be in a couple of weeks. Until then, we'll just have to wait to see how next year's summer trip shakes out. One thing's for sure though: this year's trips will be hard ones to beat.

A couple of snapshots from the Tokyo summer trip.

Pickleball turns to Fall

With more great weather, comes more demand for Pickleball

Come out to play!

Court 3 will be lined with two more courts, allowing for Pickleball any day/all day

Drop-in times:

Sunday 1pm to 3pm

Tuesday 7:30pm to 10pm (DUPR competitive play)

Thursday 7:30pm to 10pm

No experience or equipment needed - great exercise and great people

As we move into fall the Tuesday AM Bocce league will start play on Tuesday September 5th. We encourage all interested to sign up for the leagues. Great way to meet fellow Elks and participate in a world wide sport. Both men & women are welcome to participate.

There is a sign-up sheet on the bulletin board just to the left of the members bar. If you are interested but unable to get to the Lodge please email me your phone number and email address and we will assign you a team. Teams are selected each season by a random draw of all players

Email: donrsteam@gmail.com

We had our 6th tournament of the year on Wednesday, August 2nd at Las Positas Golf Course. The course wasn't in good shape with water and mud on a lot of the holes. Also, they only had 3 tape measures to use for the 4 par 3's. I would like to find a new course to replace Las Positas next year. Anybody with suggestions please email me at richt2u@gmail.com. Congratulations to Don Kelley who was 5'9" on the Par 3 8th hole. That makes Don "closest to the pin" so far for the year. For "golfer of the year" Mark Milano leads with 21 points, followed by Steve Seitz with 18 points, and John Caselli and Rick Swartz with 14 points. All the prize winners from Las Positas are listed below.

Our next tournament is Wednesday, September 5th at Monarch Bay. The cost is $70, and the money is due by Monday, August 28th. Also included in this tournament is a breakfast burrito and coffee, and a bucket of range balls.

HANDBALL

The San Mateo Elks Lodge, or as many of our members call it, the 1112 is a handball mecca. Many Elks Lodges have handball courts – but we aren't just any other lodge.

Our first court was built in 1953, but in the early '70s this court was converted into a two-story weight room and three courts were then added across the pool. Once these were built, players from all over the Bay Area started coming to our Elks Lodge – the 1112 – to compete in our tournaments.

At the San Mateo Elks Lodge we have three courts in the southwest corner of the property. Many of our members have never seen our courts, let alone watched a game or a tournament, but don't let that fool you. Not only do we have courts, but some of our members are among the best handball players in the country (including some world champs – I'm looking at you [Joe McDonald and Mike Dunn Sr.]). The San Mateo Courts have been training world class players for 70 years and we don't plan on changing that.

In 2022 we had the honor of hosting the Northern California Hall of Fame Banquet. It was a great night with two of our very own members being inducted (Mike McDonald and Leonard De LaTorre). Between Mike and Leonard they have twelve national titles. Over the years, Elks handball members have won eighty two national titles with twenty three different players. We also have several world titles under our belts. And lets not forget about all our Hall of Fame members.

If you haven't seen the San Mateo Elks Lodge handball courts or tournaments then come check them out!
